Dear Friends & Colleagues

We would like to invite you to attend The 3rd International Conference on Controversies in Neuropathic Pain, taking place 20-21 November 2023 in Brussels, Belgium.

Following the success of the virtual conference last year, we are delighted to announce that we will once again be convening in person to engage in stimulating discussions on the most pressing and controversial issues surrounding neuropathic pain.

This conference is intended to gather clinicians, translational and basic scientists who have an interest in neuropathic pain, with the aim of discussing important areas within the field. These areas will range from the clinical aspects of diagnosis, classification, and neurophysiology, to the molecular mechanisms and genetics involved in neuropathic pain.

The conference will offer a platform for established researchers and junior investigators to network, collaborate and develop new research partnerships. Junior researchers will have the opportunity to present their work and receive feedback from leading experts in the field.

We are pleased to announce our faculty comprises some of the most distinguished experts in the field of neuropathic pain research. Along with the academic program, the conference provides an excellent opportunity for networking and facilitating interaction between attendees, enabling them to discuss their specific problems in greater detail.

We look forward to welcoming you to this informative conference in November 2023.

Best regards,

Congress Chair
